Sir Isaac Newton's Family.—By CANON C. W. FOSTER,
M.A., F.S.A., F.R.Hist.S.

IN the volume xxxviii of the ASSOCIATED SOCIETIES' Reports and Papers two articles were printed in connection with the bicentenary of the death of Sir Isaac Newton, the most famous of Lincolnshire men. The first, written by Mr C. K. Bird, M.A., consisted of an account of Newton's Work; the second, by Mr Christopher Turnor, of Stoke Rochford, was entitled The Country-Side in Newton's Day. It is now proposed to give some particulars of Newton's ancestors and relatives.

Several accounts of Newton's family have been printed. Edmund Turnor, in Collections for the History of the Town and Soke of Grantham,¹ printed the pedigree which Sir Isaac Newton drew up for registration in the College of Arms in 1705. This pedigree was founded upon his title deeds, and on the parish register of Colsterworth, and was supported by affidavits (printed by Turnor) of Sir Isaac and his cousin, Sir

(1) pages 168-9.

John Newton, baronet, of Culverthorpe.¹ Turnor also printed a long letter about Newton from Dr Stukeley. A pedigree, which is less complete than the one last mentioned, was printed by the late Canon A. R. Maddison, from the papers of Mr A. S. Larken, Richmond Herald, in Lincolnshire Pedigrees.² This pedigree is based upon the account of the family in the Herald's Visitation of Lincolnshire in 1634. In 1874, the late Reverend John Mirehouse, rector of Colsterworth, reprinted the College of Arms pedigree of 1705 and the affidavits, with extracts from the parish registers of Haydor, Bassingthorpe cum Westby, North Witham, South Witham, and Colsterworth, co. Lincoln, and Belton, co. Rutland, adding some fresh particulars about Newton's family contributed by the Reverend Thomas S. Hill, Colonel Chester, and Mr W. H. G. Bagshawe. He also, for the first time, gave a full account of the descendants of Newton's half-sister, Hannah Smith, and of the Newtons of Culverthorpe who, by a special limitation, succeeded to the baronetcy of Newton of Barrs Court.³ It is not proposed to repeat these latter particulars here, but to confine the present account to Sir Isaac Newton's branch of the family. For this purpose, new evidence has been obtained from wills, parish registers, the lay subsidy rolls, and other documents; and the wills and inventories which are printed in the Appendix will serve to illustrate the economic status of the family. Access to parish registers has been granted to the writer by the kindness of Canon G. E. Mahon, rector of Colsterworth, the Reverend D. S. Davies, late rector of North Witham, the Reverend H. L. Wooffindin, rector of Great Gonerby, the vicar of Bassingthorpe and Bitchfield, the Reverend W. M. Dixon, vicar of Tattershall, Miss Puckeridge, and the curate in charge of Skillington.

In the following account of the family the numbers in italic type, and enclosed in brackets, correspond with the numbers in the key pedigree at the end of this article. L.C.C. stands for Lincoln Consistory Court, the wills and administrations of which court are preserved in the Lincoln District Probate Registry.

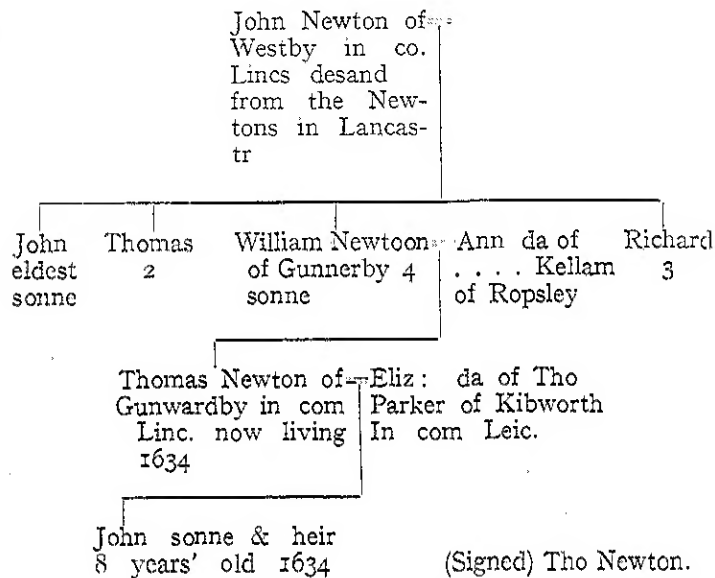

Pedigrees of the Newtons of Westby in the parish of Bassingthorpe and of Woolsthorpe were entered in the Herald's Visitations of Lincolnshire in 1634 and 1666 respectively, and these are printed below from copies which have been made for the purpose of this article, from the original documents in the College of Arms, by the kindness of Sir Henry Farnham Burke, K.C.V.O., C.B., Garter Principal King of Arms:

PEDIGREE NO. II

Visitation of Lincolnshire 1666
 (MS. D. 23, f.19)

The John Newton (3), of Westby, with whom the Visitation pedigree of 1634 begins, was Sir Isaac Newton's great-great-grandfather, the descent being through the third son, Richard. The first two Johns in this pedigree shall be distinguished as John II (3) and John III (6). John II seems to have been the son of an earlier John (see below), whom we will call John I (2). Now, the evidence of wills and parish registers shews that Sir Isaac Newton, in 1705, not having before him the evidence to be obtained from the family wills, failed to distinguish between John II and John III, and concluded that the latter was the John who bought an estate in Woolsthorpe, and dying in 1562, was his ancestor. This mistake led him to misinterpret the quite accurate Visitation pedigree of 1634; and the same error has been perpetuated by Mr Larken, Mr Mirehouse, and Canon Maddison, who all, very pardonably, followed the great man's guidance. Sir Isaac's pedigree of 1705 is printed below (Pedigree no. III). He stated in his affidavit that the deed of 1562 was then in his possession, by which document John Newton II settled the land which he bought in Woolsthorpe on his sons Richard, George, Robert, Simon, and William Newton, and their heirs, in succession. This settlement, seemingly, led Sir Isaac to the conclusion that Richard was the eldest son, since he came first in the entail, and from this it followed that he could not be the Richard named in the second generation of the pedigree of 1634 (Pedigree no. I), and in the same generation of his own pedigree of 1705 (Pedigree no. III), because that Richard was the third son. The evidence now available proves that Sir Isaac's ancestor was the third, but second surviving, son, Richard, of whom Newton said: 'what became of him, or his descendants, is not yet known.' The correct descent is given in the Pedigree no. IV, below.

The pedigree of 1634 states that John Newton II was descended from the Newtons of Lancashire. If this is correct, the migration probably took place not later than the first quarter of the sixteenth century, for the family was settled at Westby and in the neighbourhood in 1524. The story of the Lancashire origin of the family is the less improbable from the fact that, in the sixteenth century, there was, for a cause which has still to be explained, a considerable incursion of Lancashire families into Lincolnshire. At one time Newton seems to have played with the notion that his family was descended from a noble Scottish house of Newtown, a derivation for which there appears to be no evidence at all. In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries it was considered more desirable than it is now for new men, who had become eminent, to establish a descent from an armigerous family; and there are many instances of venial officials who were ready, for a sufficient consideration, to accept bogus pedigrees. The pedigree, however, which was entered in the College of Arms in 1705, on the strength of the affidavits of Newton and his cousin, Sir John Newton, was perfectly genuine, (though mistaken in an important particular, as mentioned above), and contained no suggestion of either a Lancashire or a Scottish descent. The available evidence proves a descent from a yeoman at Westby in the time of Henry VIII, whose father seems to have been in a humbler social position than himself, and who had relatives in the same and neighbouring parishes. The presumption, therefore, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, is that the family was one of native Lincolnshire descent, which took its name from one of the several places called Newton in the county. The family is found at Newton by Folkingham, within ten miles of Westby, in the reign of Elizabeth.

3. SIMON NEWTON (2), of Westby, in the parish of Bassingthorpe, in 1524, paid fourpence, on an assessment of twenty shillings in wages, to a subsidy granted by the laity to the king. He was one of fourteen inhabitants who paid that amount. There were eight others who paid sums ranging from 12d. to 9s. 6d., while one, Thomas Ellis, (who is otherwise known to have been a person of importance), paid £16 13s. 4d.¹ It is clear, therefore, that Simon's place was low in the social scale. Twenty years later, in 1544, his place in the subsidy roll is taken by John Newton I senior, whose name is followed by that of John Newton II junior. This roll is the record of a benevolence granted by spiritual and temporal persons worth £5 a year in lands and £10 in goods or upwards, for the defence of the realm.² The number of contributors in each village is small, and it is evident that it was only the wealthier inhabitants who contributed. Under Bassingthorpe, which included the hamlet of Westby, there are four names: Richard Cony £9, John Newton senior 40s., John Newton junior 13s. 4d., and Robert Cony 10s. In February, 1545-6, John Newton (the 'junior' of 1544), of Bassingthorpe cum Westby, paid 10s. on an assessment of £10 in goods. At the same time, John Okeley paid 5s. on an assessment of £8 in goods, and Joari, John, and Robert Cony were assessed on lands.³ John Newton senior, it seems, was dead. It is evident that the Newtons had improved their position in the world since 1524.

jj. JOHN NEWTON I (2), of Westby, yeoman, contributed to the subsidy in 1544, as mentioned above. No conclusive evidence with respect to his parentage is likely ever to be forthcoming; but the probability is that he was the son of the Simon of 1524, whose place he had taken in the subsidy roll of 1544; and it may be presumed that he was the father of John Newton II (3), who, as the subsidy rolls indicate, succeeded him at Westby. It is not without significance that John II gave the name of Simon to one of his sons. John I seems to have died in, or soon after, 1544, since that is the last occasion on which his name appears on the subsidy roll.

jjj. JOHN NEWTON II (3), of Westby, husbandman, who contributed (as above) to the subsidies of 1544 and 1545-6, was probably the son of John I. On 20 January, 1562-3, Michael Newton and Ellen his wife, for £40 quitclaimed from themselves and their heirs to John Newton and his heirs one messuage, one toft, one garden, 60 acres of [arable] land, 20 acres of meadow, 40 acres of pasture, one acre of wood, and 6 acres of furze and heath, with the appurtenances, in Wollestrop and Colsterworth.¹ This was probably the property referred to in the deed of 19 December, 1562, by which John Newton II settled an estate which he had brought in 'Wilstrope, in the parish of Colsterworth', that is Woolsthorpe, on his five sons, Richard, George, Robert, Simon, and William Newton, and their heirs, in succession.² This property descended from Richard to Sir Isaac. Richard's eldest surviving brother, John, was excluded from the settlement seemingly because he succeeded to the farm in Westby where his father dwelt, and also received a house with its appurtenances³ in Westby under the will of his grandmother, Katherine Nixe.

John Newton II married Mary Nixe (4), whose father may safely be identified as the Thomas Nixe of Burton le Coggles who contributed 20s., on an assessment of £40, to the subsidy of January, 1524-5.⁴ Thomas was dead in March, 1544-5, and in the subsidy of that month, his place is taken by his sons John and George Nixe; and, in the subsidy of the next year, by his widow Katherine and his said two sons.⁵ Mary's mother, Katherine Nixe, by her will, dated 22 March, 1544-5,⁶ bequeaths to Mary Newton, her daughter, two angel nobles and two kine to provide for the marriages of her children, and also her 'silver harnes' girdle'; and devises to her grandson, John son of John Newton, of Westby, a house with the appurtenances in that place. She also bequeaths to her son, John Nixe, her bees with their hives in trust to 'keype one lyghte every sonday and hollyday in y^e yere before the blyssyd Sacrament in the church off Burton and one other lyghte called the rowndell⁷ before the rowde in y^e sayd church so longe as y^e stocke off the sayd bees contynewys'. The Nixes were a well-to-do yeoman family, and it may be that it was his marriage with Mary that enabled John Newton to buy the original Newton estate at Woolsthorpe. John, it may be remarked, was able to devise separate farms to his sons, John, Richard, and William. John and Mary Newton had issue:

- I. WILLIAM NEWTON (5), baptized 30 August, 1541⁸; dead in 1562 when his father made his will.
- II. JOHN NEWTON III (6), of Westby, yeoman, baptized 25 June, 1542⁹; eldest son in 1562; married Anne (7), daughter of Robert Gibson, of Pickworth, co. Lincoln, yeoman, and had issue:
 1. ROBERT NEWTON, baptized 30 October, 1568¹⁰; living in 1583.
 2. THOMAS NEWTON, baptized 13 July, 1576¹¹; living in 1583.
 3. JOHN NEWTON, baptized 31 March, and buried 1 June, 1579.¹²
 1. ALICE NEWTON, baptized 1 November, and buried 26 December, 1570.¹³
 2. ANNE NEWTON, baptized 20 December, 1571¹⁴; living in 1583.
 3. MARY NEWTON, baptized 15 August, 1574¹⁵; living in 1583.
 4. ISABEL NEWTON, baptized 27 December, 1580¹⁶; living in 1583.
 5. ELIZABETH NEWTON (posthumous), baptized 22 May, and buried 1 September, 1583.¹⁷

JOHN NEWTON paid 3s. on an assessment of 40s. at Bassingthorpe cum Westby in 1571,¹⁸ and it is probable that the Robert Newton senior and Robert Newton junior who each paid 10s. 8d. there on an assessment of £4 in goods in 1599,¹ were his son and grandson; and their descendants seem to have been living there in the latter part of the eighteenth century, as perhaps they do at the present day. John Newton III made his will, 25 February, 1582-3, and it was proved 22 March, in the same year.² He desires to be buried 'under the stone in the church yeard of Bassingthorpe,' and the parish register records that he was buried 'under the stone next the church,' 27 February. His widow, Anne, with her brother, Thomas Gibson, of Pickworth, yeoman, entered into a bond that she would truly execute her husband's will.³ Under the will of her father, dated 8 December, 1583,⁴ Anne received 'one tenement or house with the yearde and backside in Grauntham now in the tenure of Nicholas Grene or his assignes, to hold to her and the heirs of her body,' with remainder, in default, to the right heirs of the testator. After John Newton's death, she was married at Bassingthorpe, 14 September, 1584, to John Withers.

- III. RICHARD NEWTON (8), of Woolsthorpe (see below 171).
 IV. THOMAS NEWTON (10), living in 1565; received 'twenty markes in monye and a donne graie colt' under his father's will. Perhaps he is to be identified with Richard Newton, of Burton Coggles who, in his will, dated 8 March, 1578-9,⁵ makes his wife executrix, and mentions his children (unnamed), and his brothers John and Richard, and Anne the daughter of the former. This Thomas had two children baptized at Burton: Anne, 27 November, 1569; and Sarah, 25 October, 1574. Thomas was churchwarden there in 1574-5.⁶
 V. WILLIAM NEWTON (11), of Skillington and Great Gonerby, yeoman, received a farm in Westby in the occupation of Joan Okelaie, widow, in 1562. On 6 October, 1584, William Newton and Anne his wife and John Askewe clerk and Katherine his wife, for £40, quitclaimed to Thomas Cony, esquire, and Alice his wife, and the heirs of Thomas, a messuage, a garden, an orchard, 20 acres of land, 5 acres of meadow, 5 acres of pasture, and 20 acres of furze and heath in Bassingthorpe and Westby.¹ His will shews that William Newton acquired a considerable amount of property, for he devises to his son John lands in Skillington, Gonerby, Barrowby, and Harlaxton, and to his son Thomas lands in Westborough and Denton, co. Lincoln, and in Bradmore, co. Nottingham. William married Anne (12), daughter of Richard Kelham, or Kellam,² of Ropsley, yeoman, (by Elizabeth his wife), and widow of Richard Denton (who was still alive in 1569) and, subsequently, as it seems, she was widow of . . . Hickson.³ In her will, which is dated 11 February, 1597-8, she is described as of Gonerby, widow, and she mentions twelve children by her several husbands. She was buried at Skillington, 21 February, 1597-8. By her William Newton had issue:

1. JOHN NEWTON (20), of Skillington and Great Gonerby, yeoman, baptized 12 January, 1580-1.⁴ By his wife, Alice, he had a daughter, Isabel, baptized 12 May, 1600,⁵ who probably died in infancy since she is not mentioned in his will. By his will, dated 5 August, 1606,⁶ he devised his land and tenements in Gonerby and Allington to his brother, Thomas, and his heirs. He names 'my mother Orby' and 'my brother Hacksey.' He directed that his land in Skillington should be sold, and the proceeds divided amongst his half-brothers and half-sisters, the Dentons.
2. THOMAS NEWTON (21), of Gonerby, who was born circa 1626, and married Elizabeth (22) daughter of Thomas Parker, of Kibworth, co. Leicester, by whom he had two sons:
 - i. RICHARD NEWTON (29), baptized at Haydor, 8 March, 1620-1; buried 17 October, 1622.⁷
 - ii. RICHARD NEWTON (30), baptized 30 December, 1623,⁷ buried 8 September 1630.⁷
 - iii. SIR JOHN NEWTON (31), of Culverthorpe in the parish of Haydor, born 9 June, 1626; succeeded by special limitation in the patent, in 1661, as second baronet, to the baronetcy of Newton, of Barrs Court, co. Gloucester. For his descendants see Miscellanea Genealogica, new series, I, 169-72. He had an only surviving son, Sir John Newton, bart, of Barrs Court and Culverthorpe, born about 1651; died 1734. It was he who made an affidavit in support of the pedigree submitted by Sir Isaac Newton to the College of Arms in 1705.¹ The story is a strange one. The Newtons of Barrs Court were an ancient family, which appears to have had no connection with the Newtons of Woolsthorpe and Culverthorpe. Yet John Newton, of Barrs Court, when he obtained a patent for a baronetcy, on 16 August, 1660, for himself for the term of his life, secured a grant of remainder to John Newton, of Haydor, esquire, and his heirs male. Sir John Newton, of Barrs Court, died soon afterwards, in 1661, leaving his estates by will to Sir John, of Haydor, who succeeded him as second baronet. The reason given in the patent for the grant of the baronetcy is that Sir John, of Barrs Court, had provided thirty footsoldiers for three years for the defence of the plantations in Ulster. It is not improbable, however, that, besides this ostensible reason, a heavy money payment may not have been necessary to secure the king's favour; and it may be suggested that the explanation of the extraordinary remainder is that John of Haydor provided the money for the acquisition of the baronetcy, and perhaps for other purposes. There is some evidence for the fact that he either agreed to purchase part of his namesake's estates, or agreed to advance money upon them.

- I. JUDITH NEWTON, baptized 19 August, 1579²; married, in 1602, William Welby, of Denton, who died 1627. She died in 1617, and from her the present Sir Charles Welby, of Denton, baronet, descends.³

2. JANE NEWTON, baptized 8 November, 1585¹; not mentioned in the will of her brother John, 1606.
3. MARY NEWTON, baptized 8 September, 1587¹; married, 8 July, 1596, at North Witham, Thomas Vincent, and had a child living in 1606.

William Newton (II) died in 1594, and was buried at Skillington 8 September. His will was dated 11 April, and proved 9 November, 1594,⁴ his brothers, Robert and George Newton, and his step-brothers, Richard Hickson and Ralph Denton, being the executors.

- VI. GEORGE NEWTON (13), of Westby, yeoman; probably baptized at Bassingthorpe, 11 August, 1545; received £10 and a fole wiche was of the blacke mare' under his father's will, 1562. He was buried at Bassingthorpe, 22 April, 1601. In his will, dated 10 February, 1600-1, and proved 25 April, 1601,⁵ he leaves legacies to the children of his sisters who married Henry Askew and Thomas Musson, and makes John Newton (son of his brother William), of Skillington, his executor and residuary legatee. At the foot of the will there is a list of debts due to the testator.
- VII. ROBERT NEWTON (14), received £10 and 'the donne mers fole' under his father's will, 1562; and was executor of his brother William's will in 1594.
- VIII. SIMON NEWTON (15), received £10 and 'a branded' calf' under his father's will; living 1565.
- I. ELIZABETH NEWTON, probably baptized 7 November, 1543;⁶ married, 28 September, 1563,⁶ Thomas Musson, who was probably of Swayfield, and had issue.
- II. ISABEL NEWTON, named in her mother's will, 1565.
- III. A DAUGHTER, probably dead in 1562; married Henry Askew, of Harlaxton, before 1562, and had issue.

John Newton II (3), was buried in the parish church of Bassingthorpe, 22 December, 1562.⁷ His will was dated the 17th of the same month, and proved 12 January, 1562-3.⁷ His household goods and chattels in the parlour, the hall, and the yard were valued at £94 4s. 4d.⁷ His widow, Mary (4), was buried in the same church, 17 December, 1565, her will being dated 5 December, 1565, and proved 20 February, 1565-6.¹ The inventory of her goods, which amounted to £159 5s. od., mentions the hall, parlour, chamber over the parlour, and kitchen, besides the chattels outside.²

¶ RICHARD NEWTON (8), of Woolsthorpe, yeoman, was the third, but second surviving son of John (3) and Mary (4) Newton, on whom and his heirs his father, in 1562, settled his land in Woolsthorpe. He was churchwarden of Colsterworth, 1569-70. He married Isabel —, who, after his death, perhaps married a John Newton, 13 February, 1592-3.³ By her he had issue:

- I. ROBERT NEWTON (16). See below ¶.
- II. THOMAS NEWTON (17), baptized 26 September, 1570⁴; buried 20 February, 1571-2.⁵
- III. ISAAC NEWTON (18), baptized 30 April, 1573.⁶ This is the first occurrence of the name Isaac, and it is possible that it was taken from the mother's family. Unfortunately her parentage is not known.
- IV. RICHARD NEWTON (19), of Colsterworth, baptized 17 June, 1582,⁷ a legatee under his uncle Isaac Newton's will, in 1642; perhaps buried at Colsterworth, 23 June, 1665.⁸ He had issue:
 1. WILLIAM NEWTON who, by his wife Elinor, had a daughter, Dionysia, who was baptized 11 September, and buried 1 October, 1642.⁹
 2. THOMAS NEWTON, baptized 3 August, 1617;¹⁰ buried 30 January, 1626-7.¹¹
 3. JOHN NEWTON, baptized 2 December, 1621.¹²
- I. ELSABETH NEWTON, baptized 4 September, 1575;¹³ buried 6 August, 1579.¹⁴
- II. MARY NEWTON, baptized 12 January, 1577-8.¹⁵
- III. ISABEL or ELSABEL NEWTON, baptized 1 November, 1584.¹⁶ The name has been corrected from Elisabeth in the parish register.

Richard Newton was buried 30 April, 1588.¹⁷ Administration was granted 24 May, 1588, to Isabel his widow, William Newton (his brother), of Skillington, yeoman, being surety. The inventory of his goods, which amounted to £103 18s., mentions the hall, the parlour, the buttery, the chamber over the parlour, the milkhouse, the kitchen, and the chamber over it.¹⁸

¶ ROBERT NEWTON (16), of Woolsthorpe, yeoman, eldest son of Richard (8) and Isabel (9) Newton, was born probably about 1570, succeeded to his father's property at Woolsthorpe under the deed of 1562. In 1623, he added to this estate by purchasing the manor of Woolsthorpe from Robert Underwood, who, in 1614, had bought it from Henry Bury. By a deed, dated 30 December, 15 Charles I, 1639, which was in Sir Isaac's possession in 1705, Robert settled both these estates on his eldest son Isaac Newton and Hannah Ayscough whom Isaac was about to marry. The manor of Woolsthorpe was reckoned to be worth £30 a year. Robert Newton was a churchwarden of Colsterworth in 1594, 1595, 1613, 1614, 1626, and 1627. The name of his wife, Sir Isaac's grandmother, is not given in the pedigree of 1705, nor does it appear in the parish register. Her burial, too, has not been found. Robert Newton had issue:

I. JOHN NEWTON (23), baptized 14 July, and buried 29 July, 1605.¹

II. ISAAC NEWTON (24) See below ¶¶.

III. ROBERT NEWTON (27), yeoman, baptized at Colsterworth, 27 September, 1607. Sir Isaac states in his pedigree that Robert afterwards lived at Couthorpe which was, at that time, in the parish of Castle Bytham, though, since 1860, it has been in the parish of Creton. The inventory of his goods is dated 30 June, 1646. Administration of his goods was granted, 8 June, 1649,² to Cicely his widow, who was buried at Creton, 14 March, 1678-9. An attempt has been made to identify with this Robert Newton the Robert Newton, of Oundle, co. Northampton, who dying in 1677, had numerous descendants, but the evidence given above is fatal to the contention.³ Robert of Couthorpe left a son,

I. NEWTON (33), whose christian name is unknown. His existence, however, is certain, because (1) Sir Isaac enters him in his pedigree as his first cousin, and (2) the grandson of the unknown was Sir Isaac's heir-at-law in 1727. The unknown had a son,

(1) All the entries are taken from the Colsterworth parish register. In the case of the children, John, Isabel, Elizabeth, Mary, Margaret, and Alice, the father's name is not given; but Sir Isaac, in 1705, entered Isabel and Elizabeth in his pedigree, and he could scarcely have been mistaken since they were his own aunts; and further he mentions their children, whom he must have known.

- i. JOHN NEWTON (37), yeoman and carpenter, of Woolsthorpe, born circa 1665; acted as gamekeeper to Sir Isaac. He was buried 13 October, 1725,¹ aged 60. By his will, dated 19 September, 1725,² he left land in Colsterworth and Woolsthorpe to his son John, whom he appointed executor. By Martha his wife, (who was living in 1737), he had,
- I. JOHN NEWTON (40), yeoman, of Colsterworth, born circa 1707. He was heir-at-law to Sir Isaac Newton, and inherited his property at Woolsthorpe and Sewstern. Sir D. Brewster, in his Life of Newton, says of John that he became a worthless and dissolute person who very soon wasted the ancient patrimony, and falling down with a tobacco pipe in his mouth when drunk, it broke in his throat and put an end to his life at the age of thirty. He sold the manor of Woolsthorpe to Mr Edmund Turnor, of Stoke Rochford, in 1723. He left, however, the income of an estate in Colsterworth and Woolsthorpe, to his mother Martha for her life, and the reversion of the estate to his two sisters, Mary Bridges and Alice Newton. He was buried at Colsterworth, 22 June, 1737. His will was dated 31 May, 1737, and proved 2 October following, by his mother, the executrix.³

- IV. MARGARET NEWTON, baptized 8, and buried 13 August, 1602.¹
- V. ALICE NEWTON, baptized 31 January, and buried 7 February, 1603-4.¹
- VI. MARY NEWTON, baptized 5 September, 1612;² perhaps the person who married Michael Bigley, 20 November, 1641, at Colsterworth; or she may have married Thomas Christian of Skillington, to whose daughter, Elizabeth, Isaac Newton left a legacy in 1642.
- VII. ANNE NEWTON, baptized 6 May, 1615;² probably buried 13 July, 1616.²
- Robert Newton was buried at Colsterworth, 20 September, 1641.² Neither his will, nor administration has been found.

III. ISAAC NEWTON (24), of Woolsthorpe, yeoman, eldest surviving son of Robert Newton, was baptized 21 September 1606.² He succeeded to the manor of Woolsthorpe, and to the older Newton property in that place under the settlement of 1639. In April, 1642, he married Hannah, daughter of James Ayscough (or Askew) of Market Overton, co. Rutland,³ gentleman. She had land in Sewstern, co. Leicester, worth £50 a year. It is not improbable that Hannah was connected with the Askews, of Harlaxton, between whom and the Newtons there was already a connection.⁴ Hannah's mother was Margery daughter of . . . Blyth, of Stroxtun, a few miles distant from Woolsthorpe. The Bishops' transcripts of the parish register of that place in the solitary Blyth entry prior to 1610, record the marriage of 'James Aiscoigh and Margery Blyth' under the date 24 December, 1609. John Blyth of Denton and Stroxtun entered his pedigree in the Herald's visitation of Lincolnshire, in 1634. Hannah's brother, William Ayscough, who will appear later, was instituted to the rectory of Burton Coggles, 1 January, 1641-2,⁵ on the presentation of the Crown, and was buried there, 6 November, 1669. In her will, Hannah leaves £5 to her sister, Sarah Cook.

Sir Isaac Newton says in his affidavit, that his grandfather, Robert, settled the manor of Woolsthorpe on his (Sir Isaac's) father and mother on 30 December, 1639. If this date is correct, the marriage must have been in contemplation for two or three years. Newton, in the affidavit, speaking of his kinsman, Sir John Newton, of Culverthorpe in Haydor, baronet, says

‘having by tradition from his kindred ever since he can remember, reckoned himselfe next of kin (among the Newtons) to Sir John Newton’s family, and having also, about fifty-four or fifty-five years ago, heard his grandmother Ascough (with whom he lived at Wylstrobe aforesaid, alias Woolstrobe, till he was about eleven years old, and who at that time frequently conversed with the deponent’s great uncle, Richard Newton) say, that he, this deponent, was or had been next heir att law to Mr [afterwards Sir John (31)] Newton, of Hather, until the birth of Mr Newton’s children, who were then two or three infants, and that he or they were cousins two or three times removed, or words to that purpose; and he, this deponent, believing that his said grandmother, upon the marriage of her daughter with his father, might learn the kindred, and that his grandfather [Robert] Newton, to promote the marriage, might be forward to speak of itt, representing himself to be cousin once removed, and next heir to the said Mr [afterwards Sir John] Newton, att that time six or seven years under age, afterwards father to Sir John, Newton.’¹

Isaac Newton (24) and Hannah (Ayscough) (25) were the father and mother of

SIR ISAAC NEWTON (32). See below ¶¶¶.

The elder Isaac Newton died about six months after his marriage, and was buried at Colsterworth, on 6 October, 1642, rather less than three months before the birth of his famous son. His will was dated 1 October, five days before his death, and proved on the 31st day of the same month. With the exception of a few small legacies he leaves the rest of his goods to his wife, making her executrix, and appointing Mr James Ayscough, his father-in-law, and Mr William Ayscough, rector of Burton Coggles, his brother-in-law, supervisors. The will and the inventory of goods and chattels are printed below.² It is interesting to trace the increase in wealth and position from Simon Newton (1) who, in 1524, paid fourpence to a subsidy on an assessment of twenty shillings in wages, through to Isaac Newton, of Woolsthorpe, who, in 1642, left £459 12s. 4d. These figures, it should be remembered, relate only to personal property, in addition to which there were purchases of land in Woolsthorpe in 1562 and 1623.

If, however, there were then alive, as seems likely (see above page 7) any male descendants of John Newton III, they would succeed before Isaac Newton who was descended from a younger brother of John III. It is plain that, even in 1638, there was confusion between the three John Newtons.

After her husband’s death, Hannah lived in the manor house of Woolsthorpe, until her second marriage, on 27 January, 1645-6, at North Witham, with Barnabas Smith (26) M.A., the rector of that parish. The following story was told to John Conduit, a nephew by marriage to Sir Isaac Newton, by Mrs Hutton whose maiden name was Ayscough:

‘Mr Smith, a neighbouring clergyman, who had a very good estate, had lived a bachelor till he was pretty old, and one of his parishioners advising him to marry, he said he did not know where to meet with a good wife. The man answered, the widow Newton is an extraordinary good woman. But, saith Mr Smith, how do I know she will have me, and I don’t care to ask and be denied; but if you will go and ask her, I will pay you for your day’s work. He went accordingly. Her answer was, she would be advised by her brother Ayscough. Upon which Mr Smith sent the same person to Mr Ayscough on the same errand, who, upon consulting with his sister, treated with Mr Smith, who gave Isaac a parcel of land, being one of the terms insisted on by the widow if she married him.’¹

But Barnabas Smith seemingly was not a bachelor, as stated above, for, in June, 1645, Smith wife of Mr Barnabas Smith [of N]orth Witham [died] and was buried.² He was an old man, as age went in those days, for he matriculated at Lincoln College, Oxford, in December, 1597, being then fifteen years old. He was instituted to the rectory of North Witham, 8 January, 1609-10, on the presentation of Benedict Smith, rector of South Witham 1573-1635, who had bought the next presentation from Sir Henry Pakenham, knight, of Belton near Grantham, and who was probably his father.³ In a Liber Cleri of the bishop of Lincoln’s visitation in 1611 (folio 7), he is entered as of good behaviour, non-resident, and not hospitable. He died in 1653, and his will which was dated 17 August in that year, and proved at London, 8 February following, and at Lincoln, 11 June, 1679,⁴ shews that he was possessed of some wealth. By Hannah he had three children,

- I. BENJAMIN SMITH, baptized August, 1651.
- I. MARIE SMITH, baptized 6 May, 1647; married 22 November, 1666, at Colsterworth, to Thomas Pilkington, of Belton, co. Rutland.
- II. HANNAH SMITH, baptized 7 September, 1652; married as his second wife, to Robert Barton of Brigstock, co. Northampton, and had inter alios a daughter Katherine, who married, 26 August, 1717, John Conduitt, of Cranberry Lodge in the parish of Otterbourne, co. Southampton, who succeeded Sir Isaac Newton as master of the Mint.

When Sir Isaac Newton died, in 1727, the three children of his half-brother Benjamin Smith, the three surviving children of Mary Pilkington, and the two surviving children of Hannah Barton were his legal representatives, and shared his personal estate of £32,000.

After her second husband's death, Sir Isaac Newton's mother returned to the manor house at Woolsthorpe with Newton's half-brother and sisters.

Sir David Brewster relates that, in 1679, when Benjamin Smith, Newton's half-brother, had been seized while at Stamford with a malignant fever, his mother, who had hastened to attend his sick bed, was taken ill with the same complaint. Newton, who was always devoted to his mother, left his duties and studies to watch at her couch. He sat up with her whole nights, and ministered with his own hands the necessary medicines, and prepared and dressed her blisters with all the dexterity of a practitioner. His skill, however, was unavailing. She sank under the disease, and her remains were carried to Colsterworth and deposited in the church there. She was buried in woollen, on 4 June, 1679. Her will was dated 21 March, 1672-3, and proved 11 June, 1679, by Sir Isaac Newton, the executor, who was also the residuary legatee.

¶ III. SIR ISAAC NEWTON (32), the Philosopher, only child of Isaac Newton (24) by Hannah Ayscough (25), was born on Christmas Day, 1642, eleven and a half weeks after his father's death. Sir Isaac told John Conduitt who married his niece, Katherine Barton, 'that he had often heard his mother say, that when he was born he was so little, that they might have put him into a quart mug; and so unlikely to live, that two women who were sent to Lady Pakenham's at North Witham for something for him, did not expect to find him alive on their return.'² If this be so, it is strange that, according to the Woolsthorpe, which his grandfather had bought some twenty years earlier. The house, which remains unchanged, faces westwards, and is built of grey stone. It probably dates from the late Tudor period. The engraving by E. Howlett, from a drawing by James Bourne, is reproduced from Turnor's History of Grantham (p. 157). The house was thoroughly repaired by Mr Turnor, of Stoke Rochford, in 1798, who erected a stone tablet over the front door, bearing the inscription: 'In this Manor House Sir Isaac Newton was born, 25th December, 1642,' surmounted by a shield bearing the arms of the Newton family: Two human shin-bones saltirewise. Bourne's drawing was evidently made before 1798, for it does not shew the tablet. The windows have stone mullions, and some of them have been at some time blocked up, no doubt on account of the window-tax, and reopened. The stone-work of some of the mullions has been replaced by wood. On the right-hand side, on entering the front door, was the 'hall,' a large room, which is now divided to form a lobby, a passage, and a room. On the left is the 'parlour,' which is over a cellar, the mullioned windows of which, below the ground level, are not shewn in Bourne's drawing. The hall, until modern times, was paved with stone, which has been replaced by wood. The floor of the parlour has perhaps always been of wood since it is over the cellar. The staircase is opposite the front door. At the top of it, on the left, is 'the chamber over the parlour,' the room in which Newton was born. In 1798, Mr Turnor placed in it a stone tablet with the inscription

SIR ISAAC NEWTON, SON OF ISAAC NEWTON, LORD OF THE MANOR OF WOOLSTHORPE, WAS BORN IN THIS ROOM ON THE 25TH OF DECEMBER, 1642.

NATURE AND NATURE'S LAWS LAY HID IN NIGHT:

GOD SAID, "LET NEWTON BE," AND ALL WAS LIGHT.

Opposite to this room, on the right of the stairs, is 'the chamber over the hall,' which is supposed to have been Newton's bedroom. A space in its south-east corner, which is partitioned off, is said to have served him as a study. Both these rooms have plaster floors, and all four rooms have stone chimney pieces.

Behind the middle of the oblong block which contains these rooms, there is a rectangular extension which seems to have been part of the original building. It undoubtedly contained the buttery and kitchen in 1642, and a huge beam spans the large recess at the east side which seemingly was used for the kitchen fireplace. The recess is still used for the same purpose, and the whole of the extension forms the present kitchen. The existing windows and doorway are painfully modern work. In the upper storey of the extension, the western part, that is the part nearest to the main block, must have been 'the chamber over the butterie' mentioned in the elder Isaac Newton's inventory of goods as containing 'two bedsteads with [their] furniture'; and it is still used as a bedroom, the door of which is opposite the top of the staircase already referred to. The eastern part of the upper floor, above what is presumed to have been the original kitchen, seems always to have been a granary, access to which is provided by an outside stone staircase.

Newton succeeded to the manor of Woolsthorpe, and to his mother's estate at Sewstern, and, under her will, to land which she had bought at Woolsthorpe and at Buckminster, co. Leicester.

At the Herald's visitation of Lincolnshire, in 1666, Newton entered his pedigree as printed above. No arms were recorded on that occasion, nor were any arms entered when Newton registered his pedigree at the Heralds' College in 1705; but Sir H. Farnham Burke has been so good as to inform me that the pedigree of 1705 was a continuation of the pedigree recorded in 1634,¹ and that this fact undoubtedly proves Sir Isaac's right to the arms recorded in 1634, namely, Sable, two shin bones in saltire argent. These arms were confirmed, on 20 May, 1662, to Sir John Newton, baronet, of Culverthorpe, to be borne quarterly with his family arms.² The 'family arms' were the arms which he had assumed with the baronetcy to which he succeeded on the death of Sir John Newton, of Barrs Court, namely, Argent, on a chevron azure three garbs or. The seal with which Sir John, of Culverthorpe, sealed his affidavit in 1705,³ had the latter arms in the first and fourth quarters, and Sable, three shin bones in saltire argent, in the second and third quarters.

In the north aisle of the choir of Colsterworth church a dial cut in stone is inserted in the north wall with the inscription:

It is beyond the scope of the present article to give an account of Newton's life and work. His principal appointments are detailed in his pedigree of 1705.¹ He died at his lodgings, in Orbal's Building, Kensington, on Monday, 20 March, 1726-7, in his eighty-fifth year. His body lay in state in the Jerusalem Chamber, and on 28 March, was buried in Westminster Abbey, at the west end of the choir, in the middle aisle of the nave, where a plain flagstone marks the grave and bears the inscription:

HIC DEPOSITUM EST
QUOD MORTALE FUIT
ISAACI NEWTONI

In 1731 a monument was erected in the Abbey to his memory. His estates at Woolsthorpe and Sewstern, as already stated passed to John Newton, the grandson of his first cousin,² and his personal estate of £32,000 to eight half-nephews and -nieces. During his life he made provision for other relatives, including his mother's family, the Ayscoughs. He also spent money freely for the encouragement of ingenuity and learning.

The frontispiece has been printed by the permission of Mr Christopher Turnor, by Messrs Methuen and Co. Limited, 36, Essex Street, London, from a block which is their property, and the thanks of the Society are due to them for their courtesy. According to Sir David Brewster, Newton was 'in personal appearance . . . not above the middle size, and in the latter part of his life was inclined to be corpulent.' Thomas Hearne said that he was 'a short well-set man.'

Three of Newton's sayings may be quoted in closing the present account. The first shews that in his regard for animals he was in advance of his time. 'He considered,' as Sir David Brewster says, 'that cruelty to beasts was a violation of christian morality, and such was his tenderness for the lower creation, that he could not tolerate the sports of hunting or shooting animals'; and he urged it as an objection to one of his nephews, 'that he loved killing of birds.' In a letter to Dr Bentley he said, 'If I have done the public any service, . . . it is due to nothing but industry and patient thought.' Shortly before his death, he said, 'I do not know what I may appear to the world, but to myself I seem to have been only like a boy playing on the sea shore, and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary while the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me.'

I. RICHARD NEWTON (28), of Colsterworth, yeoman, fourth, but third surviving, son of Robert Newton (16), of Woolsthorpe,¹ was baptised 9 April, 1609.² He was uncle to Sir Isaac Newton. He married, first, Alice . . . , and by her, who was buried 20 September, 1642,² he had two daughters,

I. MARY NEWTON, who was under twenty-one in 1659, when her father bequeathed to her fourscore pounds 'and also one bedd, one cubberd, one cheare, one presse, and one chest with all lynnens and other things therein w^{ch} were her mothers.' She married, first, William Christian of Colsterworth, who was churchwarden in 1664, and was buried there 16 October, 1665, leaving issue two sons,

ROBERT CHRISTIAN and JOHN CHRISTIAN, who are mentioned in the will of Elizabeth Newton, 1698,³ as her late husband's grandsons, and a daughter, ANNE NEWTON, also named in Elizabeth Newton's will, who married Simon Whittle, 18 April, 1686, and had a daughter, ANNE WHITTLE, baptized, 23 December, 1688.²

MARY NEWTON, married, secondly, 5 October, 1666,² John Pinder, of Little Ponton and Gunby, who was dead in 1698, leaving issue, MARY and RICHARD PINDER, who are named in Elizabeth Newton's will. Mary Pinder (née Newton) was buried 20 January, 1681-2.²

II. ANNE NEWTON, born shortly before her mother's death, and baptized 11 September, 1642,² to whom Isaac Newton, Sir Isaac's father, three weeks later, left a legacy of 'seven pounds of corrant English money.' She was dead in December, 1659, when her father made his will.

Richard married, secondly, Elizabeth . . . , who survived him. By her he had,

II. ROBERT NEWTON (35), who was under age in December, 1659, when his father devised to him and his heirs a messuage and other property in Colsterworth, Woolsthorpe, and Easton, to be used for his education and bringing up until he should be of age. He probably was the Robert Newton who was buried at Colsterworth 17 July, 1677.²

- I. JANE NEWTON, under twenty-one in 1659.
- II. ELIZABETH NEWTON, under twenty-one in 1659.

Richard Newton (28) made his will 12 December, 1659, considering that 'there is nothing more certaine than death and nothing more uncertaine then the tyme of dieinge,' and it was proved 4 October, 1660, by his widow. He desires that his body 'bee buried in the church of Coultsworth aforesaid in decent and orderlie manner, there to expecte a glorious resurreccion att the last daie.' He devises a cottage in Colsterworth to his nephew, Robert Christian. His widow Elizabeth was buried at Colsterworth, 27 March, 1701. She is described in the parish register as 'Eliz: Neuton widd: to Robert Neuton deceased farmer,' but her will, dated 1 October, 1698, and proved 13 May, 1701, proves conclusively that she was the widow of Richard Newton.² She seems to be the person of her name who was overseer of Colsterworth in 1666.

II. RICHARD NEWTON (34), of Colsterworth, yeoman, son of Richard Newton (28), inherited the farm on which his father lived, and other property in Colsterworth, Woolsthorpe, and Easton; and he was churchwarden of Colsterworth in 1667 and 1676.³ He was one of the executors of his father's will. By his wife Elizabeth, he had issue,

- I. ROBERT NEWTON (38). See below.

II. RICHARD NEWTON (39), of Colsterworth, yeoman, posthumous son, baptized 3 November, 1684,⁴ who, by his wife Elizabeth, who survived him, had two daughters,

- i. ANNE NEWTON, buried 10 March, 1714-15.⁵
- ii. ANNE NEWTON, baptized 1 October, 1719,⁵ whom her father appointed executrix.

Richard (39), was buried 29 January, 1721-2,⁵ his will being dated 10 January, and proved 6 February, 1721-2.⁵

- I. ELIZABETH NEWTON, to whom her father bequeathed £160; baptized 21 May, 1676⁶; married Richard Taylor, and had two sons, Richard and Robert, and a daughter, Elizabeth. These five people were living in 1734, when Robert Newton, the elder Elizabeth's brother, made his will.

- II. ANNE NEWTON, baptized 26 December, 1679,¹ to whom her father bequeathed £150.

Richard Newton (34), was buried 2 May, 1684.¹ In his will, dated 19 April, and proved 22 May, 1684,² he appoints Elizabeth his wife and Robert his son executors, and makes his 'two brothers,' William Lunn and George Morris, supervisors. He provides that his mother shall have his messuage house with the lands and appurtenances belonging to it for her life, with remainder to his son Robert. His widow Elizabeth seems to have been churchwarden of Colsterworth in 1685. She is mentioned as alive in 1734, in her son Robert's will; and she was probably the 'Widow Newton the elder of Colsterworth' who was buried 28 July, 1741.¹

III. ROBERT NEWTON (38), of Woolsthorpe, yeoman, elder son of Richard Newton (34), was baptized at Colsterworth, 28 February, 1677-8. He was churchwarden there 1704, 1710, and 1720; and, dying without issue, was buried there 25 June, 1734. In his will, dated 13 June, and proved 3 July, 1734,³ he appoints his wife Martha and his nephew Richard Taylor to be executors. He devises his real estate or the reversion of it, in Colsterworth and Easton to his nephews Richard and Robert Taylor, leaving to the former Rha haws closes in Easton, which in his father's will were called Rufus closes. He leaves legacies to his sister Elizabeth Taylor, and to his niece Elizabeth Taylor, daughter of Richard Taylor. Perhaps his widow, Martha, was the 'Widow Newton,' who was buried at Colsterworth, 1 December, 1752.

In a future Report of this SOCIETY it may be possible to give some particulars about the Newtons of Keisby and Osgodby in the parish of Lavington or Lenton, and of Bassingthorpe (see Appendix, no. 1), Skillington, and Easton (see Appendix, no. 3), with whom the Newtons of Westby and Bassingthorpe almost certainly were connected, though it is unlikely that the exact relationship will ever be established.
